

By Timothy Sutton

Mrs. Sarah Campbell spends her days as a school teacher. She stays busy with her students trying to give them the best chance at success.

One student asks about what she will need to make on the final exam to make an A. A few other students have the same question.

She has a large class and that is a lot of scores to calculate and she still has to finish the exams and tend to her own kids. She still tells her students she will get them the grades they need for an "A."

She gets home and tells her husband about all the work she has to do and still has to tend to the kids.

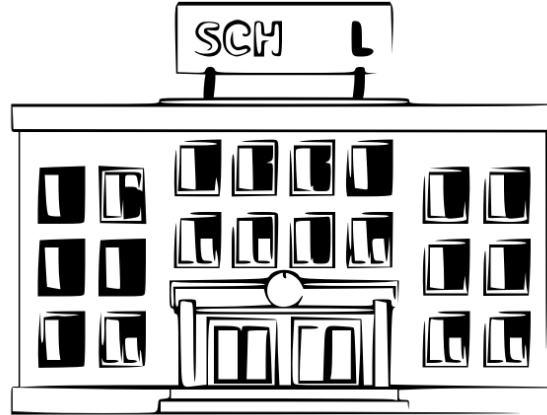

Her husband wants to help so he finds an app called final grades and shows this to her to free up some time so she can spend more time with her kids.

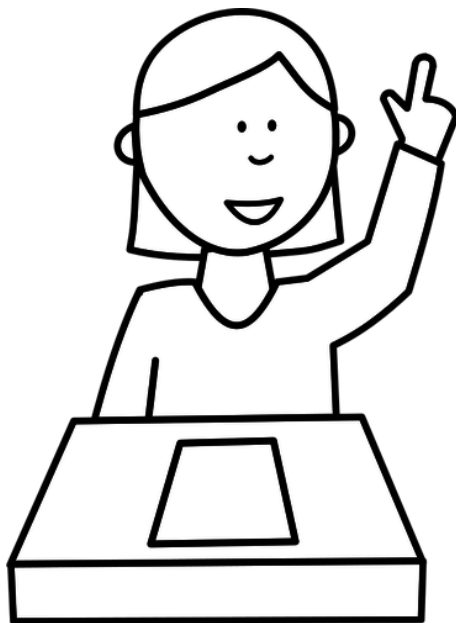

With the help of the app she is able to quickly calculate the grades her students need. She also teaches the students about the app so they can use it themselves. She then spends her extra free time with her kids.

By Timothy Sutton

Mrs. Sarah Campbell spends her days as a school teacher. She stays busy with her students trying to give them the best chance at success.

One student asks about what she will need to make on the final exam to make an A. A few other students have the same question.

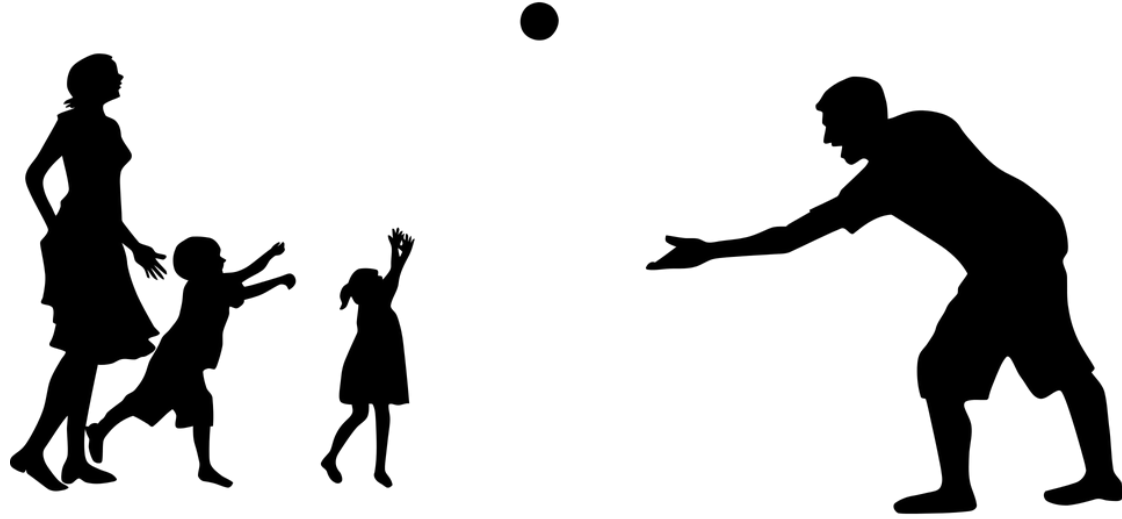

She has a large class and that is a lot of scores to calculate and she still has to finish the exams and tend to her own kids. She still tells her students she will get them the grades they need for an “A.”

She gets home and tells her husband about all the work she has to do and still has to tend to the kids.

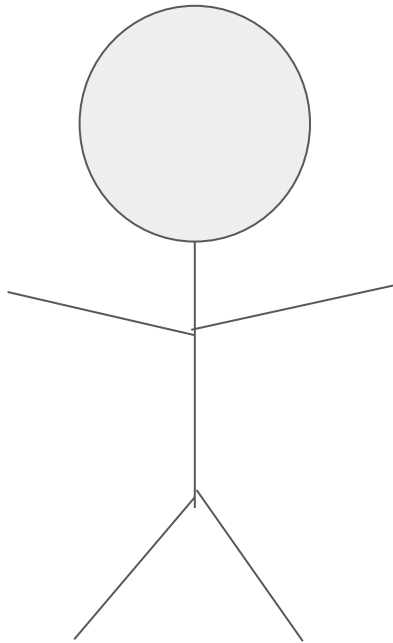

Her husband wants to help so he finds an app called final grades and shows this to her to free up some time so she can spend more time with her kids.

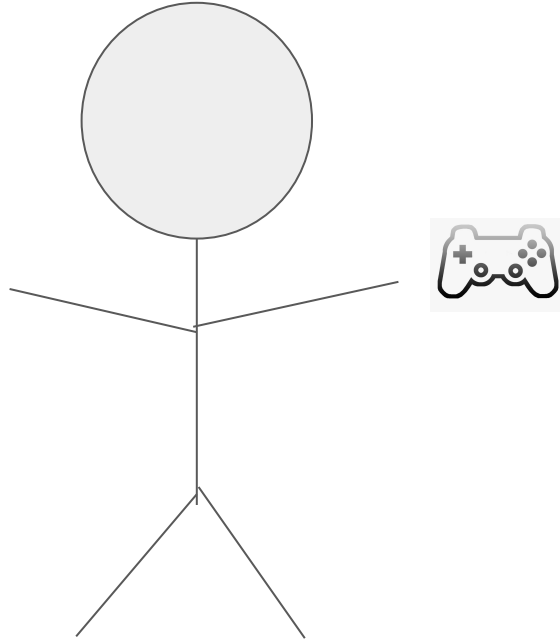

With the help of the app she is able to quickly calculate the grades her students need. She also teaches the students about the app so they can use it themselves. She then spends her extra free time with her kids.

Jim Harrison by David Vo

Jim Harrison is a student studying at a public university. As a student, Jim is very concerned with his academic performance.

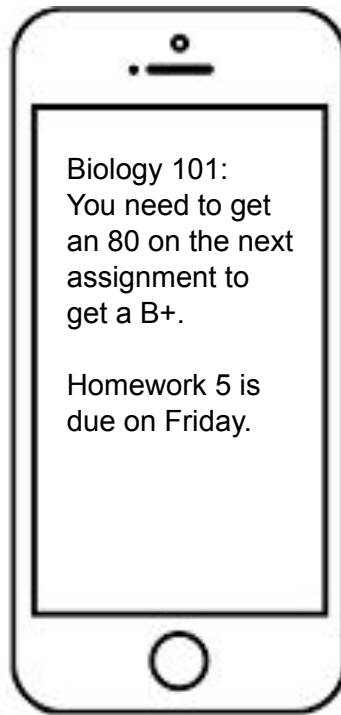

However, Jim has a habit of playing video games, which can distract him and make him forget to do important assignments.

One day, Jim notices that he has missed yet another assignment for his biology class and Jim starts to worry over his biology grade.

He then searches for something that will help him track his grades in his classes, and keep him focused on his work.

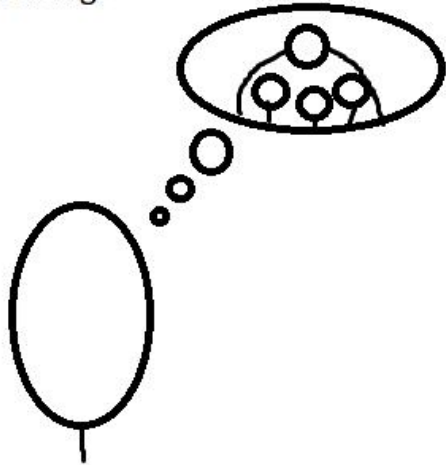

One day, Jim finds an app that will allow him to see his grades, and also notifies him of incoming due dates and assignments.

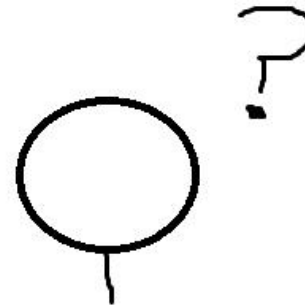

After discovering the app, Jim can now keep track of his work, which allows him to spend his time more effectively.

Anthony Scaramucci Storyboard by Ross Vicario

Tony wants to keep track of how his grandchildren are doing.

Tony has little familiarity with the grading scale, and doesn't know how to calculate grades for himself.

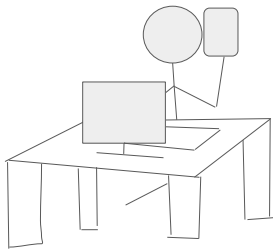

Tony downloads an app to perform the calculations for him easily.

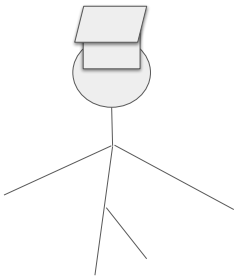

Now he's all set to reassure himself about his grandkids' prospects.

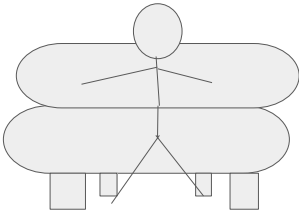

When Emily Hechmeister's son Mike Hechmeister was in high school, she often received calls from school because Mike absent from his class and didn't do his homework.

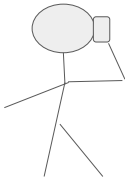

Even though Mike didn't do well in his high school, he still successful graduated and got an offer from a university.

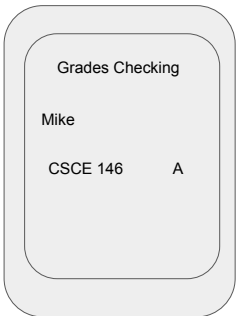

Since Mike went to college, Emily hasn't even received one call from school.

She called her son asking about his recent behavior, and his son said everything was fine.

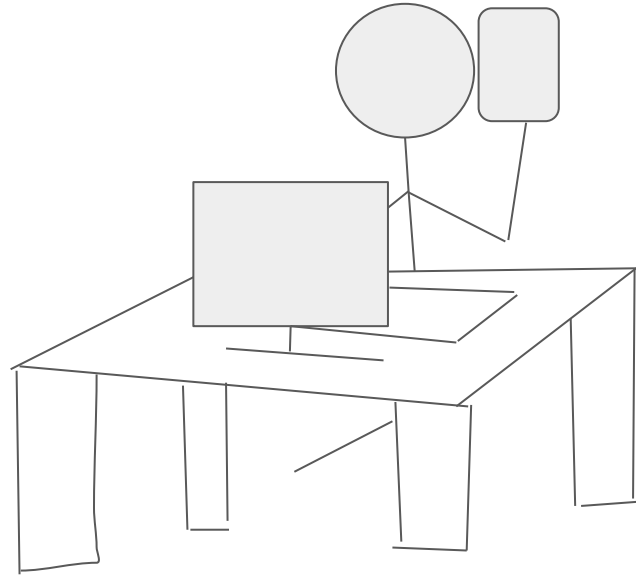

After that, she found out a app that can track students grades, and her son was also using this app. Her son's grades also listed in the app.

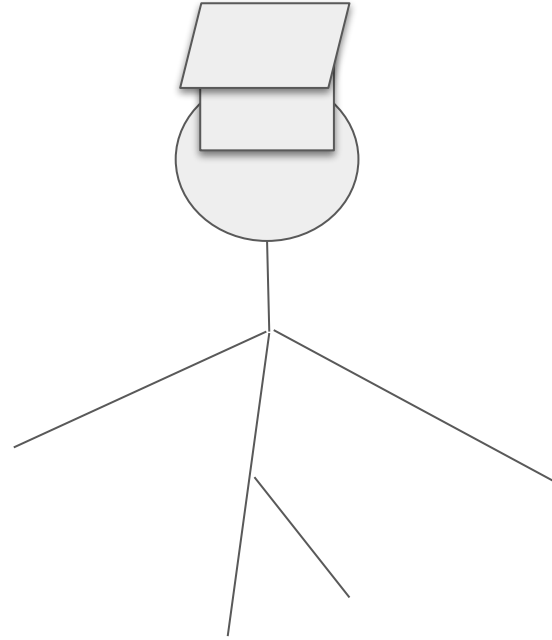

It turned out that everything her son said was right after she used the grades checking app.

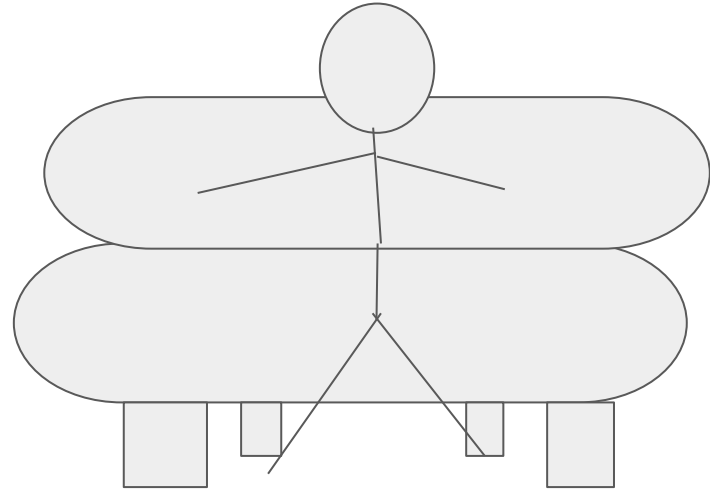

When Emily Hechmeister's son Mike Hechmeister was in high school, she often received calls from school because Mike absent from his class and didn't do his homework.

Even though Mike didn't do well in his high school, he still successful graduated and got an offer from a university.

Since Mike went to college, Emily hasn't even received one call from school.

She called her son asking about his recent behavior, and his son said everything was fine.

After that, she found out a app that can track students grades, and her son was also using this app. Her son's grades also listed in the app.

It turned out that everything her son said was right after she used the grades checking app.

Grades Checking

Mike did well in school